BRITAIN AND FRANCE READY TO PRESENT JOINT PROGRAMME

Reported in Agreement on Peace Overtures for Session of League—Broad Economic Concessions to Be Urged in Place of Domination of Abyssinia Demanded by Italy

GENEVA, July 30 (CP-Havas).—Great Britain and France tonight were reported in agreement concerning peace overtures for tomorrow's special session of the League of Nations, in which they will propose resumption of arbitration proceedings by the mixed commission which has been deadlocked over the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel.

Premier Laval conferred at Paris with Anthony Eden, British Minister for League of Nations Affairs. Tonight the two were closeted in a private compartment of the Paris-Geneva express, preparing for the difficult task of presenting their joint programme tomorrow to Baron Pompeo Aloisi, head of the Italian delegation.

TO RESUME ARBITRATION
 Well-informed observers said the most urgent representations would be made to Italy to induce the Government to agree to a resumption of the work of the arbitration commission.

It is thought if the Italian Government will agree to further negotiations by the arbitration commission, and permit the council to designate the limits of its competence, that time might be gained, and opportunity provided for direct negotiations among Great Britain, France and Italy.

ECONOMIC CONCESSIONS
 LONDON, July 30 (P).—Anthony Eden, carrying Britain's hopes for Italo-Ethiopian peace to Geneva, will urge that Mussolini's demands for domination of Abyssinia be altered to embrace only broad economic concessions, informed sources reported tonight.

The British Minister for League of Nations Affairs will tell Baron Aloisi.

CLOSING IN ON TRAIN BANDITS

Floods Expected to Aid Capture of Men Who De-railed Express

TOKIO, July 30 (P).—Japanese and Manchukuoan soldiers and police tonight were reported to have closed in on the Heikinko-Tumen express, which was believed to be hiding in forested mountains between the railway and the Sungari River.

TROOPS CLOSE IN
 Because the river was at flood stage following recent heavy rains, it was expected the group would be unable to cross. Troops and police closing in from all sides hoped to speedily capture the bandits and free the five Japanese and twenty Manchukuoan kidnappers.

The train carried 220 passengers and thirty guards. Total casualties, dead, wounded and missing, were set at more than 100.

(Dispatches from Kalgan, Inner Mongolia, said Dr. Herbert Mueller, German journalist, kidnapped three weeks ago, reached Paochang, to the northeast, after having been deprived of all his clothing. Another newspaperman seized with him, Oswald Jones, of The Manchester Guardian, was still held. He was believed in great peril, since ransom demanded was overdue.)

Special Prosecutor Says Policy Racket Alone Yielding Millions in New York

NEW YORK, July 30 (P).—Asserting there is not a family in the city of New York that does not pay tribute to the underworld every day, Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey tonight for public co-operation tonight in his campaign to stamp out racketeering.

Dewey, embarking on a two-year investigation of organized crime syndicates, promised to prosecute "any crime in the book," from malicious mischief to murder, if it is found to be connected with an organized racket.

He asserted that it was his understanding the policy racket alone was yielding between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 a year.

MANCHUKUAN CITY IN DANGER OF DESTRUCTION BY FLOODS

Thousands of Houses Engulfed by Rising Water of Yalu River

FIFTY KILLED WHEN SCHOOL COLLAPSES

ANTUNG, Manchukuo, July 31 (P).—This city appeared in imminent danger of destruction by typhoon-driven flood waters. Rengo (Japanese) News Agency sources reported today.

Rising waters of the Yalu River engulfed 15,000 houses, following a small break in a dike. The water was running twenty-four feet deep in the Manchurian quarter.

The flood, greatest in sixty years, showed no signs of abating.

HOMELESS POPULATION
 Thousands of Antungites were fleeing the submerged zone for higher ground. An official bulletin said more than 110,000, or virtually the entire population, were homeless.

Property damage to date was placed at 10,000,000 yen. Nakano Island, in the middle of the river, was virtually submerged. Fifteen hundred inhabitants were removed, but 3,000 remained, and it was feared all would be drowned, since the rapid current made further rescue impossible.

Oregon Excavation Bares Evidence of Ancient Habitation

Anthropologist Says Discoveries in Mountain Cavern Throw New Light on Migrations of Tribes in Western America

BEND, Ore., July 30 (P).—Dr. L. S. Cressman, University of Oregon anthropologist, today announced the discovery of valuable data which he believes will prove that human habitation of the Pacific Northwest is as old as the primeval Mousterian period of Europe.

Dr. Cressman, accompanied by R. H. Bach, a topographer, and three university students, arrived in Bend after spending three weeks excavating in Harney County in South-eastern Oregon, particularly in the Steens Mountain section.

The anthropologist today said he was confident his discoveries in an isolated cave in the Steens Mountains would throw a new and important light on migrations of the oldest habitation in Oregon.

 Mrs. Brock Dies of Injuries Several Hours Later—David Sloan, Mining Operator, Seriously Injured—Machine Nose-Dives in Down-Draft When Taking Off From Resort

VANCOUVER, July 31 (P).—Mrs. R. W. Brock died at Horseshoe Bay early today bringing to three the toll of deaths from an airplane crash yesterday at Alta Lake. Dean R. W. Brock and Pilot William McCluskey were killed. David Sloan is being taken to Vancouver General Hospital in a critical condition.

David Sloan, managing director of Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia, Ltd., suffered fractures of both ankles, fractured jaw, hip injuries and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Brock and Mr. Sloan were being rushed to Vancouver by speedboat from Squamish whence they had been taken from Alta Lake by Pacific Great Eastern freight train. Mrs. Brock's condition and rough water thrown up by wind and rain caused the speedboat to put into Horseshoe Bay, about fifteen miles from Vancouver.

McCluskey had taken Dean Brock and Mr. Sloan from Vancouver before noon yesterday and stopped at Alta Lake to pick up Mrs. Brock, who was holidaying there. They were taking off again at 4:30 p.m. for Gun Lake in the Bridge River district when the accident happened.

Crashes onto rocks.

The plane rose and then nosedived into the trees bordering the lake, and from there crashed onto the rocks below. Dean Brock and McCluskey were believed instantly killed.

Airmen here state that Alta Lake has a down-draft at the south end, with which Pilot McCluskey may not have been familiar. In addition the air was thinning by an altitude of 2,200 feet. The take-off was made far towards the south end and the combination of down-draft and thin

Washington State Department Speaks Up for Freedom in Religion

WASHINGTON, July 30 (P).—Taking direct official cognizance of current Nazi activities against Jews and Catholics, the State Department today spoke out for "religious freedom and liberty."

Coincidentally, diplomatic officials acted upon a formal German protest against an alleged insult to a Nazi flag, stripped by a mob from the liner Bremen in New York Harbor. Upon receipt of the protesting note from the German Embassy, the department relayed its content to Governor Lehman, of New York.

Almost immediately came word from Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, that those involved in the flag incident "will be prosecuted."

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES
 In answer to a letter from four leading Jewish organizations, Acting Secretary Phillips declared American considered religious freedom and liberty of conscience "the most fundamental principles of our civilization and political faith" and were sympathetic to the maintenance of those concepts in all countries.

The German Government formally protested against what it termed a serious insult to the German national emblem in a note delivered at the State Department.

It was learned authoritatively that the note requested American authorities to punish anti-Nazi who tore down the swastika flag. It was learned also that the note did not demand an official apology.

LIBERALS HAVE OWN CANDIDATE

Alexander MacNeil Chosen To Oppose A. W. Neill in Comox-Alberni

PARKSVILLE, July 30.—At one of the most exciting and political meetings in the district for years, the Liberals last evening nominated Alexander MacNeil as a candidate to run in the forthcoming general election.

This is the first time in fifteen years that a Liberal candidate has been in the field for Comox-Alberni in the Federal election, support having been given to A. W. Neill, the present member.

Every effort has been made for the past three months, by heads of the Liberal party in Vancouver, to prevent a Liberal from being placed in the field in opposition to Mr. Neill.

STRONG FOR NEILL
Major Moodie, Liberal organizer, was in the city last week and called a meeting of the Liberals, saying that a Federal Liberal Association would not be recognized. The only organizations which would be organized were those supporting Mr. Neill.

He endeavored to show that any Liberal nominated against the present member, who is not a Liberal but an Independent, would not be recognized. Ian MacKenzie, M.P., who has supreme charge of Liberal affairs for the headquarters at Ottawa, had already written a letter to the president of the Comox-Alberni Liberal Association, stating that a Liberal would not receive any support either from himself or from Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

It is understood that Mr. King has stated that Mr. MacKenzie had no authority from his leader to make such a statement. The letter further demanded that the Liberals rally behind Mr. Neill.

DEMAND THEIR RIGHT
The Liberals in the district, however, demand the right to run a candidate in support of the Liberal policy and Mr. MacKenzie King.

There are between 700 and 800 new Liberals in the Alberni district alone, many of whom have never heard of Mr. Neill, and who have voted Liberal all their lives, and who intend voting Liberal at the coming election.

At times the meeting appeared to be getting out of control when Neill supporters demanded the right to address the audience. Alex Fraser, prominent building contractor of Qualicum and strong supporter of Mr. Neill, demanded the right to speak, stating that he had been a Liberal all his life.

"Are you supporting a Liberal or Mr. Neill in this election?" he was asked. "I am supporting Neill," he replied. "Then you are not a Liberal," he was advised by the chair and ordered to sit down. "Throw him out," said someone. "Try and throw me out," he retorted. "There will be nothing left of you to throw out," came from the back of the hall.

MANAGER SPEAKS
Jack Warren, campaign manager for Mr. Neill, received permission to address the meeting and endeavored to show why a Liberal candidate should not be run in the riding. "All Liberal associations through the riding are supporting Neill," he stated.

"The associations may be, but not the Liberals," was the reply. "I honestly believe that Mr. Neill is the best man we can get, and I am only sorry that he has not received the office-by acclamation," he said.

"Did not Mayor Sims of Courtenay last month, and yet you want all Liberals in the district to support a man who was nominated by a Conservative?"

There was no reply to this question, but loud cheers by the delegates. "We do not want an Independent, we want a Liberal," was the cry from the hall. The meeting then went on record at supporting the Liberal platform and the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

Nominations were then called for, and Alexander MacNeil, prominent business of Port Alberni, was duly declared the Liberal candidate, there being no other nominations.

This was received with great applause and loud cheers, and was a signal for the Liberals who are supporting Neill to rise in a body and leave the hall, calling back sarcastic remarks as they departed.

The Liberals, according to Mr. MacNeil, will proceed at once with a thorough organization throughout the whole riding. There are now four candidates in the field. A. W. Neill, Independent; Alexander MacNeil, Liberal; Reece Hague, Conservative; and Colin Cameron, C.C.F. The C.C.F. vote and the Liberal vote have for years been solidly behind Neill, and with this loss of strength, and with the fact that the C.C.F. are already split among themselves, the election fight would appear to be settling down between a straight party fight between a Liberal and Conservative.

DEAN R. W. BROCK AND PILOT ARE KILLED

It did not allow the pilot any clearance when the nose-dived happened at the timbered edge.

People in boats on the lake rushed to the scene and took Mrs. Brock and Mr. Sloan from the wreckage, after having been given to A. W. Neill, the present member.

A Pacific Great Eastern freight train was stopped at Mons and brought back to Alta Lake where the injured persons and the bodies were put on board. The train was met at Squamish, on Howe Sound, and the victims were placed aboard a speed boat, bound for Vancouver. The speed boat carried the bodies of Dean Brock and his associates at the University of Toronto, Queen's University, where he received his Master of Arts degree with high honors in 1905, and Heidelberg University.

After serving for a short time as demonstrator in chemistry and mineralogy at Queen's University, he joined the staff of the Geological Survey of Canada, where he conducted many important explorations and won the reputation as the best authority on the geological formation of the great mineral belt in Southern British Columbia. In 1903, he acted as royal commissioner to investigate the landslides at Frank, Alta, that claimed many lives. In 1906 he was promoted to geologist and the following year he was made director of the Geological Survey. In 1914 he was appointed Deputy Minister of Mines at Ottawa.

Returning from overseas he assumed the post of dean of the college of applied science of the University of British Columbia. He was a life fellow of the American Geological Society, fellow of the Geological Society, London, member of the Association of American Geographers; fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and a member of the National Research Council. He was a member of Canadian, British and American mining and metallurgical organizations and a past general secretary of the International Geological Congress.

Mrs. Brock was the former Mildred Britton, daughter of late Hon. Justice B. M. Britton, of Ontario. Lieut. Commander P. Willet Brock, R.N.; Britton, David and Tom, the latter a student at Royal Military College, Kingston, are sons.

OPTOMETRISTS HOLD CONCLAVE

This week, Seattle is host to the Northwest Council of Optometrists. British Columbia optometrists are making a splendid showing, Gordon Shaw, optometrist of Victoria, being among the group.

In this first annual convention, comprising Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, clinic sessions under the direction of Dr. A. M. Skeffington, director of the Graduate Clinic Foundation and internationally-known authority on visual correction, took the spotlight.

Special consideration is being given to the ocular problems of youth. "The methods of analyzing visual needs of school children have advanced so rapidly," says Mr. Shaw, "that simply keeping abreast of developments is a task for the conscientious practitioner."

At the opening banquet of the congress, letters were read from C. McGee, Mayor of Vancouver, and others there, expressing an invitation to hold next year's meeting in Vancouver, the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee.

The "Better Light—Better Sight" programme sponsored by the Northwest Power & Light Association, is receiving wide attention.

Rescues Girl After Desperate Struggle In Swirling River

Veteran of South African War Saves Fourteen-Year-Old Child From Fraser—Was Swept Out Into Midstream Repeatedly

BURNABY, B.C., July 30.—George Westcott, sixty-two-year-old veteran of the South African War, today risked his life to rescue a fourteen-year-old girl from the swirling, snag-infested waters of the Fraser River at Jackman's Creek, ten miles east of New Westminster.

A piece of driftwood struck him, and without thought of personal danger he pulled off his outer clothing, ran along the bank and dove in. After reaching the girl, he was swept downstream 120 yards before he could make shore with her.

Then the girl's dress caught on a snag. To get her free, Westcott was forced to tear her dress off. Three times he made the bank of the stream, only to be swept out to midstream again when the overhanging bank caved in.

In a state of collapse, bleeding from the nose and mouth, Westcott, holding tight to the girl, was pulled to safety by Mr. and Mrs. James McEwen. They had been passing in their boat and stopped to give assistance.

After the girl had been taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. Kezovich, the child fainted, but was revived in fifteen minutes after artificial respiration had been applied.

Mr. Westcott is a former swimming instructor for the London County Council boards' schools, England. He has supervised the department last year.

In 1923, Mr. Westcott saved two children from death by drowning in Still Creek, Burnaby.

With the Government decided to go ahead shortly with the work, the acquisition of approaches becomes a matter of some moment. On one side of the river the Province owns the land required. On the other, it is understood, some holdings may have to be acquired from private owners. "The Pacific Coast has a better tourist business to Alaska than for many years. Because of the increase we were forced to augment our regular Alaska service with four special cruises by Ss. It has been an exceptionally good year for our coastwise steamships," Mr. Fullerton said.

Others in the official party were J. Edouard LeBel, K.C., member of the board of trustees; S. J. Hungerford, president, Canadian National Railways; A. E. Warren, vice-president; C. B. DEAN R. W. BROCK

The educational life of British Columbia has lost one of its leaders in the tragic death of Dean
R. W. Brock in an airplane accident. During his term as professor of applied science in the University of British Columbia, Dean Brock made his mark in educational circles, and indeed had come to be recognized as one of the best equipped of the faculty of the Provincial University. His business and organizing ability was recognized last year when he was made chairman of the Harbor Board of Vancouver, and in other ways
he had been playing the part of one of the Province's leading citizens.

Dean Brock's career was a notable one, for he was a man of versatility. The first part of his active life was as a demonstrator in chemistry
and mineralogy at Queen's University, and subsequently he joined the staff of the Geological Survey of Canada, where his reputation became speedily enhanced. By 1907 he had been appointed director of the Geological Survey. The late Dean Brock served in the Great War, and it was after his return that he was made Dean of the College of Applied Science of the University at Vancouver.

Of shy and retiring disposition but of intense humanity, Dean Brock speedily became one of the best-liked of the faculty at Point Grey. He took the keenest interest in the work of the students, had an uncanny faculty of discovering the problems that were worrying them, and he went out of his way to render whatever aid he could with advice and interest always sustained.
The fact that he was a member of so many scientific societies illustrates the character of the man, his wide research work and the keenness of his intellect. He is an undoubted loss to the life of this Province, and to that of Canada
as a whole. Not he alone was killed in the fatal airplane accident, because the same fate overtook Pilot McCuskey. To the relatives of both the deepest sympathy will go out.

DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT

The postulates of the Douglas Social Credit
scheme are not understandable to the general
mass of the people. Major Douglas realizes this himself. He believes that it will take sustained education to persuade the people to his way of thinking. Even, however, when those postulates are understood there is nothing to suggest that the conclusions reached by Major Douglas will be generally credited. In the meantime the proponents of the economic creed are nothing if not dogmatic. They are heated in their arguments in its favor. As Gladstone said: "Men are apt to mistake the strength of their feeling for the strength of their argument. The heated mind resents the chill touch or relentless scrutiny of logic."

Major Douglas believes that industrial depression is due to lack of purchasing power and not to over-production. He lays the blame for the shortage of available money to the credit functioning system of the banks. He claims that the issue of credit is not scientifically adjusted to production. These are his assumptions, and his remedy is a device for increasing consumers' purchasing power. His problem is on a par with making $75 buy $100 worth of goods. One of his methods is to arrange for the consumer to buy
his goods at a price below their financial cost and to make up the remainder of the price to the retailer by awarding him a money payment, presumably by the State. How simple it all sounds, and how simple it would be if the State had an inexhaustible purse.

Mr. Richard B. Ford, writing in The English
Review, asks where the $25, in the instance quoted, is to come from ultimately. He asks, moreover, what is to decide the fraction of cost
at which retailers will sell their goods to the buyer. Major Douglas was asked these questions
when he appeared before the Macmillan Committee. His answer was: "If you can utilize some mechanism which will enable you to lower prices
without the results which usually follow a lowering of prices, you will produce exactly the same
result of equating the purchasing powers to prices
without the evils of inflation. A policy of inflation
... is absolutely and mathematically certain to reduce any financial and economic system to ruins." Major Douglas, therefore, showed he is opposed to inflation, and yet, on the basis of his evidence, the Macmillan Committee pleaded to gather the following sequence:

"A man buys goods for $100. He pays $100 and obtains a receipt from the seller. This receipt he takes to his bank and his account at the bank
is credited with $25. Thus, in effect, he has paid $75 for the goods. The bank then collects the $25 from the Treasury to reimburse itself. How does the Treasury obtain that money? Major Douglas admits that the bank has the right to demand
its Treasury credit in the form of notes at any time. However much he may argue that the credit is created 'against the productive value of the State,' such a protest is a patent form of inflation whether the credit is in the form of a book entry or of currency notes."

Mr. Ford points out that Major Douglas postulates that all consumable goods are to be sold
below the cost of production, how much below
depends on how far total national production exceeds total national consumption. This is how his "Just Price" is obtained. Mr. Ford says that as a practical device the value of this reasoning
is small, because statistics for the financial cost of production and consumption are not-existent
and no standard-costing system has yet been devised. "Even," he says, "if such figures were obtainable, such a long period must elapse before they could be compiled and used that they would be completely out of date when at last collected."

Mr. Ford then summarizes the Douglas scheme
as follows: "Major Douglas contends that shortage of purchasing power is at the root of social and industrial depression. His remedy is to make available additional purchasing power by
the selling of goods below cost and by the issue of dividends for all. The process must succeed in giving to the consumer purchasing power that does not appear in the prices. The credit must be put in consumers' hands either by a gift of Treasury money obtained by creating credit, or by reducing prices below cost, and making up the difference by a Treasury issue to the producer.

The "Just Price" at which commodities will be sold depends on the equating of production and consumption."

He then summarizes the criticism of the scheme as follows: "The Douglas analysis of economic disequilibrium by means of the A-B Theorem is devoid of relevant meaning and false in its application, particularly as to the credit function of banks. There is no proof that there is a permanent deficiency of purchasing power in the present economic system. The issue of credit must sooner or later have an inflationary effect leading to a rise in prices, while the
"Just Price" itself is at present an academic abstraction."

EXAMPLES IN PROGRESS

In Great Britain, in the process of industrial recovery there appear to be few or no setbacks.
It is a steady movement, based on definite and progressive improvement in trade. One record comes from 2072 industrial concerns which show profits as at the end of March 31 last 19.15 per cent above those for the corresponding period of 1933-34. Another batch of companies, numbering 694, report net profits for their last financial quarter 17.8 per cent over those for the same quarter last year.

The progress being made does not apply to any limited number of industrial firms, but embraces
all. The iron, steel and coal industries show an improvement estimated at 85.4 per cent. Telegraphs and telephones improved by 41.2 per cent
in their financial returns; shipping improved 35.5
per cent; canals and docks, 45.5 per cent; rubber, 29.2 per cent; trusts, 24.6 per cent; hotels and restaurants, 12.9 per cent.

"Great Britain has set an example to the world in the same way of promoting recovery. She has balanced her budget by the enforcement of the principle of economy. So great is the confidence reposed in her financial measures that London
has again become the money market of the world.
The marvel is that so few countries have responded to her example. Only, however, that was Australia. Now Australia, having received and put into practice British advice, has a balanced budget, a trade surplus, and in successive years has reduced her Federal income tax and removed a number of nuisance taxes. Recovery in Great Britain and Australia has not been by the medium of vast expenditures of public money.
Those countries do not believe in pulling themselves up by their bootstraps. There has been reality, not artificiality, in their policies."

MIDNIGHT OIL

Miss Mary Cook, of Bishop Auckland, was a housemaid. Now she is a student at London University with a £400 scholarship for economics and social science. That, girls, is better than imitating Garbo's makeup—much more difficult and, in the long run,
much more profitable. Cinderella got a bad example when she won that beauty prize. It is more blessed to get something off your own back than to wait for a prince to bring it. There are not enough princes to go round.—Manchester Evening Chronicle.

DISILLUSION

I set a rose tree by my door,
And looked for bloom in Summer hours;
The wind blew cold across the moor,
And blighted all the opening flowers.
I chose a friend I thought was true,
My griefs my joys my all to share;
But when—Dame Fortune's cold wind blew,
Alone I had the brunt to bear.
Oh, day, when truth and falsehood met,
The shallow heart no grief may hold;
My Summer friends are with me yet,
But dress is all life's promised gold.

The rose may lift its head again,
In glowing beauty wreath my door;
But to renew lost life is vain.
The proud belief returns no more.
—Margaret M. Clancy, in Irish Weekly Independent.

The moment that law is destroyed, liberty is lost,
and men, left free to enter upon the domains of each other, destroy each other's rights and invade the field
of each other's liberty.—J. G. Holland.

This is a time of discouragement and disillusion in which, with a sort of glacial pochoy, men would rather be safe than free.—Herbert Hoover.

Note and Comment

By R. R. D.
I'm not denying that women are foolish.
God Almighty made 'em to match the men.
—George Eliot.

The women, bless their gentle hearts, are aggrieved. They say there is nothing in the papers but politics. They merely sniff when we point to the social pages and suggest that those pages are more truly representative of community life than chronicles of political events. Besides, it is not our fault
that the politicians rage and rant
when they imagine a vain thing. The politicians are the fault of woman.
If the first woman had not erred
and had not beguiled the first man,
Adam would not have been condemned to dig and Eve to sew,
and the seed of the twain would have lived happily forever after without wiping the sweat off their faces. It was after the tragedy of the garden that politicians became a pest in the world.

If the women would make a study
of history instead of reading sensational novels and the social pages
they would realize that the affairs
of the world have been mismanaged
by politicians ever since the ill-fated day when the gates of the garden were closed and the descendants of the first human pair were scattered over the face of the earth.
In the beginning of history select politicians had everything their own way. The classes managed the masses. The classes so managed things that the masses did all the digging, endured all the hardships
and suffered most of the consequences of the ambitions of the politicians and men who had studied the art of war.

In course of time the politicians
cunningly divided the people into nations and called themselves
statesmen. At the head of the nations the politicians placed kings.
Originally the kings, if they happened to be adroit politicians, were endowed with certain powers of administration, but most of the kings
were poor politicians, and the affairs of the nations really were directed by politicians who called themselves statesmen for the purpose of impressing the simple minds of the common people. Throughout all the ages the politicians have ruled. Kings may have ruled for a time as well as reigned, but statesmen generally were the ruling
classes.

If the women are responsible,
they should take an interest in politics and play an active part in getting out of the mess they have created. It will not do for them to lump the politicians all together
and say they are all tarred with
the same stick and equally bad.
We, too, are tired of politics, sick
of reading the papers about the misdeeds and the mistakes of Bennett, about the evils of high tariffs,
and the rejuvenating effects of low tariffs, about the decline in the volume of foreign trade of Canada
during the past three years, as if
that state of business were singular
to Canada and not applicable to all the rest of the world. The administration of the affairs of Canada
is a serious business at this stage
of the country's history, more serious than the politicians tell us,
and a change of government assuredly would not have the miraculous effect of turning the remains of the world depression into a condition of national prosperity.

There are two problems facing Canada at the present time, and it is the duty of the women as well as the men to make a close study of those problems and to consider
what shall be done about them.
Thus far in the election campaign
all the politicians have delicately refrained from indicating what should be done about them. As a condition precedent to renewed prosperity there must be an adjustment between revenues and expenditures. One of the obstacles to the balancing of the Canadian budget is the cost of maintaining and operating the Canadian National Railways. The cost of that job is about fifty millions of dollars a year. The other obstacle is the cost of maintaining the unemployed
in unemployment. The cost of that job is about eighty-four millions of dollars a year.

One problem is old; the other
new. The politicians have been talking about the high cost of the National Railways for years, and they have for years been expressing
the hope that something will turn up which will save them the trouble of taking action. As politicians they refuse to act, because they fear action will cost them votes.
The employees of the railways are powerfully politically, and there are districts which might be affected
which are not without votes and influence. The problem of the railways is beginning to assume the appearance of permanence. The problem of the unemployed may become permanent, too, if it is treated in the same way as the problem of the railways. If the politicians were statesmen more concerned about the future of the nation than

their own petty personal interests,
definite action might be expected.
Does anyone conversant with the negative political history of R. Hon.
William Lyon Mackenzie King believe that a change of government will result in the solution of those two ponderous problems?

NEW WORK MAY ABSORB CREWS

Granby Copper Mines at Anox Closing Down Today After Long Run

Disposition of upwards of 1,000
men and their families, who found
years of steady employment at the Granby Consolidated Copper Mines
as Anox, now closing, is settling itself, according to provincial belief yesterday. The mines and mill shut down today, at the end of a long
and eventful run from pre-war days.
For six months past, according to Mines Department officials, experienced miners at Anox have been leaving with their families, and seeking work elsewhere. Many have gone into the Cariboo and Bridge River countries, where not a few
found jobs yesterday.

NEW PULP MILL
Others, and less skilled workers,
are expected to find employment in connection with a start on the new $500,000 pulp mill project on the Mutual Pulp & Paper Mills, now planned at Prince Rupert.
While it is not to be expected that all who worked at Anox will find steady employment immediately, the outlook yesterday was that a far greater number than anticipated will be able to shift themselves this Summer.

GOOD ROADS, BEERS AND LIGIT WINS
Sir—I, together with many others,
view with alarm the inevitable outcome of Vancouver Island on her law, legs as a tourist resort, unless the Special Powers Act is put into force at once on these two important requirements. It is not necessary for a plebeian under the SPA for the latter, and as a matter of fact it is not necessary under the Liquor
Act. The Attorney-General is clothed with full powers to grant
the sale of "beers and wines" to any person upon recommendation of the Liquor Board, and it is up to the proprietors of hotels, cafes and restaurants to go after their rights
and the people's freedom in Victoria
and the whole of Vancouver Island.
If Mr. H. P. Matthews, general manager of the Canadian Pacific
hotel system, would only take this matter up with the Attorney-General on the lines of his article in today's issue, he will gladly get all the information and assistance possible with others who see eye to eye
on the utility of legislation against the freedom and liberties of the people on this vexatious question.
Surely we credit our people and our visitors with common sense, not over-indulgence, either eating or drinking. Letters and articles in our local press upon this matter
have been numerous, and the imposition of a ban on the sale of liquor to the public is a matter of the present system to all concerned.
I refer chiefly to the fruit-growing
and wine industries with the allied trades which would absorb a lot of our unemployed, and from a moral standpoint would do away
with the evasion of the law, more especially among the youth of today, who deplore the hole and corner method of "Prohibition."
No government on earth can legislate in this manner without making criminals of decent citizens.

As to good roads, poor roads, bad roads, Mrs. E. C. May, of San Marino, Cal., also of Parksville, Vancouver Island, we welcome here and also her friends' criticism, in Saturday's issue regarding the condition of the roads, and I personally
do not place the limit of travel to out to Mrs. May and her friends,
that the Public Works Department
of the Government and of the cities, have and are doing all in their power to maintain good roads
on this Island. The monetary conditions of today explain the whole situation. Taxation has gone beyond the limit of the taxpayer, and day of reckoning is at hand for an entire revision of public overhead against revenue. This question opens up the subject of one of our principal resources, "tourism."
"Tourism," etc., but is it for I am inclined to agree with many other writers on this subject that the dampening atmosphere of smug
hypocrisy largely to blame for the limit of travel, and nothing will alter this situation until the same facilities are offered to our visitors
as are granted to them in their own home towns, whether it be Quebec
or the States.

Many thanks to Mrs. E. C.
May, of Parksville and of San Marino, and Mr. H. P. Matthews, general manager of the Hotel system,
C.P.R. in bringing these vital statistics to the fore, and let us hope that quick action will result to the satisfaction of all those in favor of
"It's your Island, develop it."

Up From the Minors!
Monday evening when the Sons
of Canada were playing the Eagles in a Victoria Senior Baseball League fixture, it was observed that three of the pocket ba-tlers playing ball were product-
of the Juvenile League, "Chuck" Restell, covering the hot corner
for the Sons of Canada, "Spud" Fletcher covering the receiving for the same club, and Louis Leonard,
pitching for the Eagles, all received their early training in the Juvenile loop. What more conclusive proof could the Juvenile Baseball League show of its good work? Stay with your task, you Juvenile officials, your untiring efforts are showing good results.

Do You Know That—
The first game of baseball was played in Hoboken, New Jersey, between the Knickerbockers and
New York. The former club won the match, 23-1, after four innings. The baseball mask for catchers was introduced in the same sixty years ago, and then the chest protector came along in 1855. A. C. Macan was the last Victoria male golfer to win the Pacific-Northwest title. It was back in 1913 that Macan won the title. The trustees for the bondholders are Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Wolmer and Newcombe, the two latter representing Glyn, Messrs. Currie &
Co. and the Bankers respectively.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY
(From The Daily British Colonist of July 31, 1890.)
Canadian Pacific Loan—The issue of $13,000,000 railway stock first traded bonds of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company by the Beringes promises to be a success. The principal is to be repaid July 1, 1911. The minimum price of issue is ninety-five. The list at London and Amsterdam shows the total loss of the ship John DeCotta, and Captain Carey, with a cargo of valuable furs. The ship left Melbourne and was bound to California. She was wrecked off Cooktown, Australia, on July 14. It is thought that the crew were saved. The ship is not known here for a certainty. The ship was owned by Briggs & Cushing, of Freeport, Maine, and lately landed a cargo of steel rails at Port Moody. The steamer Wellington has loaded coal at Esquimaux Bay for the Pacific. The steamer Queen of the Pacific will sail for San Francisco at noon today.

CLUBMEN INVITED TO MASS MEETING
Kiwanians Asked to Attend New Deal Gathering to Be Held in City Temple Friday

With Dr. T. W. A. Gray in the chair, the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon took an educational turn.
T. H. Eslick, secretary of the Tourist Trade Development Association, invited clubmen to attend a mass meeting called by Mayor David Leeming for Friday evening at the City Temple at 7.45 o'clock. The problem of a new deal for Vancouver Island from the Provincial Government will be discussed.

Arthur Scumrah conducted a competition in which each club member present was required to make a list
of British possessions in all parts of the world. No one completed the list.
Donald McLean, a new member introduced by Darrell Spencer, Len Acres was congratulated on his recent marriage, and was informed that a club present awaited him.
Visiting members introduced were
A. Ramsdale, Detroit, and Henry
McLean, Vancouver.

Announcements

Superfluous hair on the face is admittedly the most hideous feminine blemish. Women very rarely speak of this disfigurement, but secretly and anxiously try every promised cure they see advertised, only to find to their sorrow that the growth is but aggravated by their use. Electrolysis alone is the safe and permanent cure and this is one advertisement which is absolutely true! Women who earnestly desire to find the truth will recognize it. LONG CANOE TRIP PLANNED

George and Beverley Gilbert And Gordon Hodgson Leave For Nanaimo Today

Three young men will leave today for adventure off the East Coast of Vancouver Island in two frail canoes. They are George and Beverley Gilbert, 515 Admirals Road, and Gordon Hodgson, 1219 Carlisle Avenue. George is eighteen, Beverley is sixteen, and Gordon is twenty-five years of age.

Departing from Sake Point, Esquimalt, as soon as the canoes are loaded, the boys plan to paddle to Nanaimo and return within two weeks. George and Beverley will occupy a sixteen-foot, factory-built craft, while Gordon will follow in a twelve-foot canoe of his own design and construction. Only the large canoe is provided with air chambers to add to its buoyancy.

THEIR FIRST ATTEMPT
This is the first time the boys have attempted a voyage of any distance in canoes, but they all swim and plan to keep as close to shore as possible. They are provided with a lifebelt, a small gasoline stove, a line by seven foot tent and enough food for two days. They intend to make for the shore and sleep and at intervals for food and water.

Both canoes are equipped with small sails for use when the wind is against them. Cargo of the large craft includes fishing tackle for trolling and fly fishing, charts showing East Coast inlets, bays and islands, and a gold pan to try out in streams.

While at Nanaimo, which they hope to make before the end of the month, the boys will stay with Gordon's sister, Mrs. J. Dobbie, 439 Wesley Street. They left provided with plenty of paper and pencils to keep a log of the voyage.

ORGANIZING FOR COMING ELECTION

Dr. King Gordon Tells Ward Clubs Of C.C.F. Socialistic Propaganda Must Be Spread

Meeting last evening at C.C.F. headquarters on Fort Street, the eight ward clubs of the Socialistic movement heard a talk by Dr. King Gordon, C.C.F. Federal candidate in Victoria, on organizing for the forthcoming Dominion election campaign.

"We must study to meet all objections raised to our movement. We must study means to carry Socialistic propaganda into every part of this constituency," declared Dr. Gordon.

He said C.C.F. followers must be prepared to answer questions of workers who wanted to know what would happen to their jobs when the C.C.F. came into power. Propaganda, he asserted, must be good and of the kind that would "get home."

When informed that membership in the ward clubs was only 250, he urged that it immediately be doubled and that each club member pledge himself or herself to persuade ten electors to vote C.C.F.

Dr. Gordon offered to address ward club meetings every night next week, and asked those present to get dates accordingly. Ward One C.C.F. club will meet at 578 John Street on Tuesday evening.

A Rift Amid the Rocks

Centuries of relentless wearing away by turbulent waters have created this rift in the rocks, and produced what is now known as Cayoosh Falls, near Craig Lodge. The picture was taken by Miss D. S. VICTORIA MAN IS PROMOTED

Hamilton Crisford, Employment Service Official, Made B.C. Inspector

Promotion came for a man long in the British Columbia Government service yesterday when Premier Pattullo announced that Hamilton Crisford, for years superintendent of the joint Victoria office of the Employment Service of Canada, had been made inspector of apprenticeship under the new Apprenticeship Act.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, amplifying the statement, explained that Mr. Crisford will be the official inspector under the act, and in charge of direction of the whole scheme.

The apprenticeship board was recently set up by the ministry, and is aimed at bringing a set of provincial standards into the training of apprentices, and the regulation of the terms under which they will work in the various trades.

Salary for the new position was officially set at $2,400 per annum, less authorized deductions.

It is understood that W. C. Stone, acting superintendent of the Victoria employment office, will shortly be ratified in that post, being in receipt of the increased emoluments since June.

Mr. Crisford is well known in Victoria, where he has taken a leading part in welfare work for a number of years. With others in the service, he was co-ordinator of the "Give a Job" campaign, which year by year at Christmas has made hundreds of extra jobs for those in need of them in this city.

Snake IS VICTOR ALTHOUGH DEAD

Youth Kills "Rattler" But Nearly Tears House to Pieces Before Shooting Reptile

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., July 30.—(P.) The rattlesnake in Aunt Mary Mitchell's house is dead, but his death appeared tonight as a reptilian victory.

Orville Cox, nineteen-year-old grandson of "Aunt Mary," dispatched the snake today and this is how:

Following the sound of the rattles, young Cox took up the entire front porch, plank by plank.

Then he attacked the side of the house and tore off four planks before he found the rattler. A hasty thrust with a pitchfork only irritated the animal, so Orville blazed away with both barrels of the family shotgun. The snake died, about half the wall disappeared, Aunt Mary's china cupboard, sitting just inside, was demolished and every dish the family owned was broken.

NEW HUPMOBILES NOW ON DISPLAY

Masters Motor Company, Limited, Showing the Aerodynamic Design, Newest in Automobiles

Every advancement in motor car design must have basic reasons to justify its existence. In the new aerodynamic Hupmobile one will find scores of reasons in both beauty and utility, why this car renders obsolete all previous body designs. For more than twenty-six years, Hupmobile's engineering genius has set the standards for the industry.

This new car is another striking proof of Hupmobile's supremacy in style and performance. Viewed from every angle, each perspective discloses new beauties in Hupmobile's aerodynamic design. Every line and curve of this graceful new car flows the air gently and noticeably about the car body, reducing back drag with consequently improved fuel economy, higher speed capacity and greatly increased smoothness.

The new cars are on display at Masters Motor Company, Ltd.

USING EXTREME HEAT IN TREATING MENTAL CASES
You have likely read about the "malaria" cure for that type of mental patient who has also paralysis. The patient was inoculated with the malaria organism and the heat or fever of the malaria caused so much improvement in some cases that after the malaria was cured by quinine they were able to return to family and business. In other cases no improvement was noted.

It was felt that it was the extreme fever caused by the malaria rather than the malaria itself that brought about the improvement.

Recently another form of heat—the drug known as "dinitrophenol"—has been used in another type of mental ailment, that is, dementia praecox, where the individual is in a "perpetual dream state." He prefers to be in a "dream" rather than face the realities of life.

Doctors I. Finkelman and W. Mary Stephens in The Journal of Pathology, London, record their experience in treating twelve female cases of dementia praecox of the "depressive" type whose ages ran from nineteen to sixty-three years and whose weights from 135 to 185 pounds—the heavy or overweight cases.

All but two of the cases had been in the institution from two to twenty-four years. Only one of the patients showed any desire at first to co-operate with the physicians in an endeavor to obtain help for themselves, but as their condition improved, they began to show interest and willingness to co-operate.

The average loss of weight was one and a half pounds per week and treatment was continued for thirty days in some cases and sixty in others.

The rate at which the body processes worked under the influence of the dinitrophenol was about forty per cent above normal. Two of the cases, where the excess fat was due to the under-action of the thyroid gland in the neck, did not respond to the action of dinitrophenol. That is, these two patients did not lose any weight or use up extra oxygen as did the other cases.

Five patients improved mentally under the treatment.

Thus we see that the "fever," or heat, that accompanies an illness is really beneficial if it remains at, or can be kept within, safe limits.

Governor's Nephew Wed In England

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—More than 500 distinguished guests attended an Anglo-American wedding in the old church of St. Clement Danes today, when Marjorie Glasgow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Glasgow, became the bride of Amrose Christian Congreve, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Congreve, of Waterford, Ireland.

The bride's father is a distinguished United States engineer now living in London. The bridegroom is a nephew of Lord Bessborough, retiring Governor-General of Canada.

Although the London season is over, the wedding was a brilliant social affair, the guests including the Princess Marie Louise, cousin of His Majesty, R. W. Bingham, United States ambassador; Baron Cartier De Marchiennes, Belgian ambassador; and the Baroness; the Duchess of Hamilton, the Duke of St. Albans and Manuel Amalbran, Argentine ambassador, and Mrs. Malbran.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of heavy ivory satin with close-fitting bodice, with little trimming.

Gladys Glad On Beauty

Dolly Madison, the charming wife of the fourth president of the United States, was renowned for her fair, delicate loveliness. She gave a lot of thought to her appearance, and one of our modern poets puts it in a descriptive poem about her, "She loved fine clothes, though she was a Quaker. She wore linen masks so the sun wouldn't bake her."

Back in that century of American history, I suppose sunbans were unknown. At any rate, they must have been regarded as a detriment to feminine loveliness, rather than as a smart summer skin tone, for like Dolly Madison, many of the women of that era used linen masks to protect their faces from the sun's burning rays.

I can't quite imagine any of our modern merrymen concealing their comely faces beneath such masks when sporting on our sunny beaches. Yet there are a good many girls who, nevertheless, prefer to retain lily-white complexions during the summer months, rather than become bronzed, and such girls always must give their skin some measure of protection.

GUARD FACE FROM SUN
If you are in this class, and don't wish to become sun-tanned, you've got to master the technique of protecting your skin. Always guard your face as much as possible from the direct rays of the sun. Wear broad-brimmed hats as often as possible. You'll find them smart for wear on the street, as well as on the beach. This year, for the new trend toward the sun-shading coolie hats.

In addition, you must protect your skin through the use of good cream or lotion. Some of our "better beauties" coat their legs, arms, faces and all exposed parts of their bodies with almond oil and cucumber lotion before sun-bathing. And every girl should, before going out in the sunshine, apply a coating of some good sunburn preventive cream or powder base to her skin. If she doesn't desire to become tanned, over this she should apply her make-up, including a generous but not mask-like coating of powder. She won't look like a ghost, really, if she uses proper shades of cosmetics and blends for make-up skillfully.

Woman Lawyer Firm Supporter Of Senator Long

VANCOUVER, July 30 (AP)—Miss Dorothy Brooks, New York lawyer, sailed from here last night en route to Alaska, where she hopes to "find out what's the matter" with the Matanuska Valley colonization scheme in which 1,600 mid-West United States families were settled this year.

"They aren't happy and I want to know why," Miss Brooks said. "I am going to see the governor at Juneau and then fly to the colony." She defended Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana.

"A REAL MAN"
"Huey Long is a real man," she stated. "You hear only the ridicule that the press agents of the big corporations have spread against him. You don't hear what he has done for Louisiana. Huey Long is afraid of nobody and he fights for the people's rights."

CRITICIZES PRESIDENT
Miss Brooks is a Democrat, but she said she disapproves of President Roosevelt's "patronage" appointments and more particularly of his policy of taxing the people to destroy food in order to raise the

Entertain Nuns With Programme

In compliment to the many visiting nuns, who are leaving shortly for distant convents and schools after attending the annual retreat of the Sisters of St. Ann, an enjoyable concert was given in the auditorium of St. Ann's Convent last evening.

In addition to the sisters, there were present Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Bishop of Victoria, and a number of priests and other specially-invited guests. Bishop MacDonald was particularly appreciative of a group of Gaelic songs given by Mrs. Mary McCreary, and, in expressing his thanks for these, said it was the first time since he left the Atlantic Coast that he had heard the Gaelic.

Those contributing to the programme were Mrs. Jameson, Ogretta Omiton, MacNeil (piano), and Heber Nasmith (baritone). Mrs. Jameson, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Elsie Friend, sang first a group of songs by American composers, "Boat Song" (Harriet Ware), "Daffodil Gold" (Hodgson), and "O That We Two Were Young" (Nevin), and later gave her Gaelic songs, "My Sweet Repose" by special request of the Mother Provincial, "But My Bird Is Long in Hiding," "Du But Die Ruh," "Yung Yang" (Bantock), and "Solweig's Song" (Greig).

Mrs. MacNeil's numbers were culled from her recent recital programme at the Empress Hotel, including the "Moon" (Parsons), and two Chopin numbers, Etude in A Flat and Mazurka.

Mr. Nasmith's groups comprised "Sombre Woods" (Lully), "Abends" (Robert Franz), "Moonlight" (Elgar), "Morgen" (Strauss), "Home-ward" (Richard Strauss), "White Swan" (Hullon), "Water Boy" (Robinson), "Ave Maria" (Schubert), "E'en as the Flower" (Knight-Loran), and, by request, "Under Rome" (Homer). If July 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p.m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:15 to 9:15 a.m., from 12:15 to 2:15 p.m., and from 4:15 to 6:15 p.m.

People of a contrary disposition are likely to find this a rather trying day, as level-headed persons will not be inclined to humor them. It might be well to remember, "haste makes waste," so be deliberate in your movements if you wish to save yourself many useless steps. In business try to adjust yourself to any unexpected change in your daily routine, should the occasion call for it, without displaying any signs of irritation, and a disagreeable argument might arise. Put yourself out to be nice to everyone you meet in a social way, for no matter how much you may have to exert yourself, it will bring its own reward. Bluffs are liable to be called on this day, so the wise man or woman will refrain from bluffing. Married and engaged couples and happy swains must stand against allowing jealousy to sway their sense of loyalty.

If a woman and July is your birthday, you are too frequently prompted by a spirit of restlessness and headlong energy than is desirable for the safeguarding of your personal interests, so try to curb these traits. All forms of amusements, especially outdoor sports, should find favor on your eyes. Since you find your greatest relaxation in the proper sort of diversions, it is right that you should seek them. It will be wise for you to establish a rule never to make a promise unless you are confident it can be kept, otherwise you may find yourself continuously in hot water. Needlework, pastry and candy making, poetry and prose writing, stenography and office clerical employment are lines of activity in which you should do well. Marriage may solve most of your problems. The child born on July 31, under normal conditions, may be expected to have nearly all the desirable graces and virtues. It will have only a few minor faults by the time it reaches its majority.

If a man and July 31 is your natal day, your ups and downs in life may ultimately end in an unlimited amount of good luck, which you can afford to smile at a few bad breaks. Railroad engineering, writing, theology, acting, painting and selling are good vocations from which to select your field of activity. Marriage is advisable for those born on this date.

Learns Bridge at Ninety

MRS. MARY ROGERS

By RAY KIRKLAND
Central Press Correspondent.
MUSKOGEE, Okla.—A pioneer Oklahoma woman who helped name her nephew, Will Rogers, film star and commentator, has taken up contract bridge at ninety, and hopes to hit and make a grand slam before she passes the century mark.

She is Mrs. Mary Rogers, a Cherokee-Creek, who was the only woman to serve as a commissioner for the Creek nation and a clerk in the Oklahoma Creek Supreme Court. Today she is an interested follower of the programme outlined for Oklahoma Indians by the Federal Government, although she doubts that present plans will afford relief.

"I'm too old now, however, to worry about the Indian situation," Mrs. Rogers says, with a smile. "I have taken up bridge and enjoy it for the Creek nation and a clerk in the Oklahoma Creek Supreme Court. Today she is an interested follower of the programme outlined for Oklahoma Indians by the Federal Government, although she doubts that present plans will afford relief."

PRESIDENT TAKES TO DESIGNING COINS

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—Borrowing his motif from the doughnut, President Roosevelt has designed a coin which soon may be jingling in citizens' pockets. Congress is willing.

It is a half-cent piece, and Secretary Morgenthau said it had a hole in the centre. The President also sketched a one mill coin, which, unlike all other American metal money, is square.

Morgenthau said he liked both designs. The mint gets coins have been proposed as an aid to states having sales taxes.

Expert Warns Of Overdoses Of Sunshine

By GLADYS GLAD
I want to warn you girls who are planning to cavort about in the sunshine during the month of August that you must be cautious about it. An ounce of protective cream is worth a pound of sunburn cure any day, for a painful and blistering sunburn is anything but pleasant, and proper skin protection goes a long way toward eliminating painful sunburns.

Sometimes, however, that pound of sunburn cure is a good thing to know about, for some women acquire badly burned skins regardless of the preaching of beauty culturists.

However, it is a good thing to know how to treat the skin after it has become sunburned. A bad sunburn leaves the skin red, inflamed and sore. It tightens it and makes the face feel stiff and taut. Of course, if the sunburn a girl receives is really an extreme one, the thing for her to do is to consult a physician. Sunburn poisoning can result from a severe sunburn that is neglected or improperly treated.

Ordinarily, however, proper treatment will soothe and relieve a painful sunburn. An excellent sunburn remedy can be made of equal parts of linseed oil and lime water. This lotion should be patted gently on the skin, and renewed as speedily as it is absorbed. Water should never be used on a sunburned skin until all the inflammation has disappeared. Usually, at least twenty-four hours should be permitted to elapse before the skin is cleansed with water. Use a good light cream for cleansing your face, in order to replace the natural oils extracted by the sun. And make frequent use of a pure nourishing cream, in order to soothe your skin and keep it soft, smooth and supple.

LEADER OF NEW PARTY RECEIVES NOMINATION

ity a rebellion against domination by the few, was a determination to restore democratic conditions and institutions.

"I am not leading a revolt against constituted authority, this movement is an effort to restore constituted authority to its real sense," he believed that the Federal Government within its own constitutional field could do a great deal more for the Canadian people.

ATTACKS HOUSING BILL
Certain large Canadian mortgage companies which have had land turned back on them are "planning to unload it on a long-suffering public" by virtue of the new Government housing bill, Mr. Stevens said later in a public address.

He served notice on Canadian meat packing organizations that if the Reconstruction Party was elected to power the farmer would be considered. "As sure as the sun rises, if I get a chance the farmer will have the first opportunity and not the packer," he declared in pleading for an organization to guard interests of the agriculturist.

Canadian packing interests feared the possibility of his return to power, Mr. Stevens told an attentive audience.

"Stanley McLean, head of the Canada Packers, fears any government which I might head because it would interfere with him," he asserted. He attacked large cannery organizations on the ground they held the grower in their power and paid him what they wished.

TELLS OF PROPOSALS

The manifesto of the new party formed the basis for Mr. Stevens' speech. He dilated on immediate steps for unemployment alleviation by way of public works, which he planned. Completion of the Trans-Canada Highway and construction of roads from the border to national parks were stressed. Removal of level crossings was another feature mentioned. A housing programme, which would enable Canada to fill pressing need for homes, was emphasized. In this connection he pressed for reduced interest rates. A maximum of 5 per cent should be sufficient, while 4 or even 3 was possible.

All young men in Canada willing and able to work must be absorbed into useful employment, the Reconstruction leader said. "Why, today there are thousands of young men who dare not marry because they cannot be sure of earning a livelihood," he told his audience.

RECIPROCAL AGREEMENTS

TORONTO, July 30 (AP).—Reciprocal trade agreements with countries "obviously able to give more wheat than at present consumed" were urged tonight by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction Party, in a statement of policy issued by Warren K. Cook, Dominion chairman.

The party urges, if necessary, "extension of credit to countries that are willing to absorb additional quantities of Canadian wheat."

The party charges that the new Dominion Wheat Board only "shifted the responsibility of the handling of the wheat situation from the shoulders of one man on to those of a commission of three." The recreational grounds.

SITUATION NOT HOPELESS

The party finds "the situation is not as hopeless as it might appear." An enlarged consumption of wheat is required, the statement says. "The solution lies, in this instance, in some mutually beneficial agreement, which is not beyond the wit of men to achieve."

"We could bear a substantial carryover of oats without any great risk," the statement continues. "Consequently, a definite and persistent effort should be made to induce the wheat producers of the West to switch a considerable acreage from wheat to oats, thus we could achieve the lessening of the pressure on wheat, while not seriously embarrassing the market for oats."

A world-wide educational campaign to increase the demand for flour made from Canadian wheat would be urged by the party.

Social Leader Enjoys Holiday

Jane Dixon Says:

I'VE NEVER YET KNOWN A GIRL, WHEN SHE SELLS HER KISSES CHEAPLY, HAS ANY VALUE PLACED ON THEM OR ON HERSELF

Dear Miss Dixon: I go with a crowd of four girls. We are all about eighteen years of age. One other girl and I have been graduated from high school, one left at the end of her third year and two others are about to graduate. The two of us who graduated are both working in offices.

We have been going together three years. In that time, the majority of us have not been out on a date with a single beau more than three times. By that I mean the boys are always dropping around to see us, always calling us up for social gatherings, etc. but when it comes to taking us to the movies, picnics or dances, they invariably ask other girls.

Miss Dixon, we are all considered attractive, good dressers, and the boys tell us we are one of the best crowd of dancers in our part of the town.

However, we don't neck, pet or drink. We do smoke occasionally. All of us are much alike—that is, we like the same things—same type of boys, places, books, movies, and we're all stenographers or hope to be.

We do want to go places and not "stagnate" either, and we all want beaus of our own. Whether we're alone or with fellows, we always act the same. We try to give and take. We used to insult boys a lot, but we've cut that out because we found they couldn't take it, and we thought that might be the reason for our unpopularity.

Could you please tell us how to meet new friends, and how to make a fresh start? Please help five disillusioned girls—Sincerely,

LOST THEIR INDIVIDUALITIES

Answer: I'm afraid that in your effort to be loyal to one another you've formed a clique in which no one is interested except yourselves. You've given the answer to your problem in your letter.

"All of us are much alike. We all like the same things: Same type of boys, places, books, movies, etc."

You've lost your individualities.

You've built up a robot which acts and talks and thinks for the five of you. A sort of supergirl who talks like a parrot and acts like a machine.

No five young women of graduate intelligence and of imagination like the same boys, books, places.

What you have done is to clamp yourselves into a mold which is formed by the strongest among you—and out pops five machine-age girls.

TOO MUCH FEMININE RESOLUTION

Don't blame the young men too much. They probably are overpowered by such a wave of feminine resolution. They ask you to social affairs because you are good girls, and that is to your credit. You wouldn't want them to ask you to petting places and never invite you socially, would you?

Necking and petting has nothing to do with your problem. I've never yet known a girl who, when she sells her kisses cheaply, has any value placed on them or on herself.

What you five need to do is to submerge the "we" and concentrate on the "I."

Try to see how different you can be. Develop your individuality. Shine by contrast.

Lelong Golfing Costume Sketched in Paris

Lelong Picks Frock for Golf

Fashioned of Jersey With Striped Blouse

By LUCIEN LELONG
(Special Cable to Central Press)

PARIS.—The woman of today is the very antithesis of the contemporary lady of the 30's. She is just as feminine, oftentimes just as fragile looking, but whereas this delicate appearance, fifty years ago, usually meant an unsound condition of health, it now indicates exactly the opposite. The woman of 1935 indulges in sports to attain the right physical proportions. She is healthy, without being robust looking, and consequently is able to make the most of the beauty with which nature has endowed her.

Golfing is one of the best of sports, and happily it is not considered peculiarly the game of youth. The woman golfer of 1935 is truly the "fair golfer" she she young or mature.

With so many ardent women golf enthusiasts, it is but natural that the clothes vision for this game is broadened. Of course the basic requirement of all sports costumes—freedom of movement—must be retained.

IDEAL COSTUMES
For instance, in my new collection there is a frock called "Mille Raies." It is a practical frock in jersey, striped with different colors on a beige ground, and worn with a short brown jacket. It is different from the classic suit, and yet the loose jacket and ample width of the skirt make it practical for golfing purposes. There is also the tulle called "Hip," sketched. It is in brown fantasia jersey, and is worn with a beige and brown striped overblouse, the stripes worked horizontally. The same material that is used for the blouse is employed for the jacket revers and lining.

CHICAGO TEAMS PULLING UP IN PENNANT RACES

England's Tennis Greats Blank U.S. In Davis Cup Play

Perry Whips Allison and Austin Takes Budge Into Camp in Final Singles Matches to Hand the Americans First Whitewashing in Twenty-Four Years—Trophy Is Presented

WIMBLEDON, England, July 30.—The Davis Cup was already safe for England, but to demonstrate their superiority in convincing fashion the defending Britons today completed the rout of their American challengers.

Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin again won their singles matches to administer the first whitewashing to the United States in twenty-four years, and by the same token, Britain swept the challenge round five victories to no defeats for the first time since 1910. Austin played the best tennis of his career to beat Donald Budge, of California, in four sets, and avenge the defeat the American youngster inflicted upon him in the quarter-finals of the All-England championships. Then, in a match characterized by complete good-humor, Perry downed Wilmer Allison, of Texas, also in four sets, and Great Britain had chalked up her third annual victory in the world's tennis classic.

Austin started the procession Saturday with a five-set victory over Allison, after which Perry trounced Budge and then yesterday the new British doubles combination of Pat Hughes and C. R. D. Tucker triumphed over Allison and John Van Ryn. Dan Maskell, the brilliant British coach, proved right in his predictions—before the fray started he refused to concede even the doubles to the challengers from across the Atlantic.

Austin won his usual by 6-2, 6-4, 6-8, 7-5, after which Perry beat Allison 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3. The crowd of 12,000, almost at capacity, roared with delight as Perry won the final match and hats and seat cushions were thrown high in the air amid roars of triumph.

PRESENTS TROPHY
Princess Helena Victoria presented the big mug to Captain Hopper-Barratt, of the British team, after the players were presented to her. The United States captain, Joseph Wear, of Philadelphia, said afterwards the better team won and he was satisfied. "Perhaps we'll do better next year. We lost to the better team and that's all there is to be said about it."

Austin started the match with the obvious intention of beating Budge with his long-winded baseline game. Austin got the break in the fourth game when Budge netted three in succession off his backhand. That was all the steady Briton needed to take the set. Full of love, dull rallies, but Austin broke the red-head in the final game for good measure.

They played colorless tennis in the first four games of the second set. Austin bore down with sharp low-angled shots aimed at Budge's backhand to win the fifth game at love.

The crowd grew to almost capacity proportions. Austin broke the youngster again in the sixth game as Budge netted point after point.

LONG RALLY
Budge broke back in the seventh, wherein there was one remarkable rally that must have lasted for thirty returns before Budge scored with a placement. Three more straight breaks, making nine in ten games, gave Austin the set.

Budge opened the third set by taking Austin's service and then holding his own at love with an ace and two unreturnable cannonballs. He couldn't hold the pace, however, and permitted Austin to pull up to 3-3.

Leading 3-4, Budge serving, had set point, but knocked Austin's easy return overboard. In the eleventh game, which Austin finished with an ace, Budge fell flat on his stomach.

The American then won three straight games to save a straight set defeat.

Budge smashed through Austin's serve twice to ruin up a lead of 4-1 in the fourth set; only to lose his accuracy and have the sure-footed Briton sweep the next three games to square the set at four-all.

While Budge was brilliant in sports, Austin never deviated from his sound ground strokes to the back corners. The score went to 5-5, and then Austin held delivery in the eleventh and scored four consecutive placements against service after Budge won the first point of the twelfth and final game. The last placement caught Budge clear out of position.

CAMPBELL IS NEAR TOP IN MEDAL ROUND

Seattle Star Shares Second Berth — Nordstrom Heads Field

Associated Press Sports Writer.
INDIANAPOLIS, July 30 (AP).—Lloyd Nordstrom, Swedish salesman from Davenport, Ia., comparative unknown, who never had qualified before, today won the medal of the national public links golf championship by a one-shot margin with a thirty-six-hole total of 145 shots.

Although he was almost too sick to play, a sufferer of heat and stomach cramps, the husky Nordie from the tall corn state kept right on sailing over the hazardous cornfield course to add a 74 to his leading 71 of yesterday to beat out Scotty Campbell, Seattle star, and Mike Balega, nineteen-year-old postal clerk from Minneapolis, by the narrowest possible margin.

Nordstrom's score for the distance was five over par, but a comparatively fine performance for the field that turned in but two scattered par scores in two days of shooting. Sixty-four players from scattered sections of the nation qualified for the championship match play.

HAS BEST CARD
Campbell, twenty-one-year-old shotmaker from Seattle's fairways, holder of the Pacific Northwest title and twice winner of the Canadian amateur crown, played sub-par golf today, returning a neat 70, the best score posted, to share runner-up position with Balega with 140. Campbell had a 76 on his opening round.

The championship gets under way tomorrow with two eighteen-hole rounds, trimming the field to sixteen survivors.

Will Oppose All-Star Nine Tonight

Manager "Stuffy" McGinnis' Old-Timers' baseball nine will make their second appearance of the season this evening, at the Royal Athletic Park, when they stack up against the Victoria Baseball League All-Stars in an exhibition fixture at 6 o'clock. In their first battle the clubs played to a 7-7 tie, but McGinnis is confident that it will be a different story tonight. Both squads have been training hard for the fixture, and are reported to be in excellent condition and ready for the battle. Prior to the commencement of the game, the players will line up facing the grandstand, and observe two minutes' silence in a final tribute to Jimmy Holmes, veteran Victoria ball player, who passed away recently. Those in the picture are: Back row, left to right, Manager "Stuffy" McGinnis, Jack McKenzie, Joe Bayley, Jr., (bat boy), Bill Pynn (coach) and Ray Parfitt, Centre row, left to right: Tommy Wachter, "Hay" Gandy, Len Woodhouse, Dave Donaldson and Frank Lines. Front row, left to right: Jim Dankerfeld, Murry Dunn, Herb Cummins, Art Webster, Pete Salloway and Hughie Devereaux. The inserts are: Left, Tommy Bowden; right, Elmer Smith. Norm Forbes, Roy Cozas and Art Minnis, other stars of a few years ago, were absent when the photo was taken.

Annual Times Swim Will Be Staged This Saturday

Annual Aquatic Marathon for Handsome Trophy to Be Staged From Gorge to Causeway—Entries Piling in—Many Expected

Headed by Bobby Mathewson, last year's winner and one of the favorites to lift the handsome Times Cup, chief award in the annual swimming classic, leading mermaids and mermen have already filed their entries for the annual Times swim Saturday afternoon, from the Gorge to the Causeway steps.

Staged annually by The Victoria Daily Times newspaper, the swim is generally conceded the outstanding distance event in British Columbia and attracts leading swimmers from different parts of the Province. Long before the start of the big event hundreds of spectators line the vantage points along the course, while at the Gorge, the starting point, and the Causeway steps, where the swimmers climb out of the water after the finish of the race, hundreds of interested people gather to see the mermaids and mermen in action.

SURE STARTERS
With the final date for the filing of entries rapidly drawing near, many additional distance stars are expected to hand in their applications today or tomorrow. Those who are virtually sure of competing in this year's grand include Bobby Mathewson, winner last year; Denny Walker, a previous winner; Bob Lawrence, husky Pacific Club swimmer; Eleanor Peden, from the same club; Nettie Barnhart, Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club; Ken Campbell, young Victoria swimmer, and Bob Smir, Y.M.C.A. star.

Denny Walker, now on H.M.C.S. Skeena, has indicated that he was going to go in quest of the handsome trophy again. While he has not yet sent in his entry, Walker is expected to do so either today or tomorrow.

Member of Athletics Joins Cochrane for Last Place—Leaders Gain

By the Associated Press.
The battle for last place in the Big Six found another newcomer moving up as Roger Cramer, of the Athletics, yesterday joined Mickey Cochrane, Monday's new arrival, and Jimmy Fox was forced out of the picture.

Pexx dropped four points to 331 as he went hitless against the Yankees, and Joe Voorn, of Cleveland, best of the American League clouters, dropped three when he failed to connect against the White Sox. The rest of the leaders, with the exception of Jimmy Bucher, of the Dodgers, who did not play, added points to their averages.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
CHICAGO, July 30 (AP).—Chicago's third-place White Sox came home today to conquer Cleveland, 8-6, in a battle of extra base hits and move one game closer to both Detroit and New York in the American League pennant tussle.

The league-leading Tigers, who lost to the St. Louis Browns, were three and a half games ahead of the Sox at the close of the day's business, while the margin of the second-place Yankees, who were defeated at Philadelphia, was cut to one game.

Senators Soundly Beaten
WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—Behind Fritz Ostermueller's four-hit pitching, the Boston Red Sox whipped the Senators here today, 11-4, in the first of their three-game series.

Although Ostermueller was stung with his hits, he was generous with his passes, his wildness giving twelve Washington players freetrips to first base. Washington used five pitchers, but none was able to stop the barrage of Red Sox hits, which totaled thirteen.

Mackmen Down Yanks
PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (AP).—Connie Mack's clubbing Athletics further damaged the Yankees' pennant hopes today, winning 6-5 for their first victory in six games with the New Yorkers here this season. It was the Yankees' ninth defeat in the last twelve games.

A home run by Paul Richards with one on in the sixth pulled the A's up from behind and handed Red Ruffing his ninth defeat. Pinky Higgins hit his fifteenth home run in the second.

Browns Take Tigers
DETROIT, July 30 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns, showing no favoritism to American League leaders, showered "Schoolboy" Rowe and the Detroit Tigers with a twelve-hit barrage today, to take the series opener, 8-6.

Pete Fox, Tiger right fielder, and Julius Solters, Browns' left fielder, got home runs.

The word "thaler" came out of that silver became known as Joachimsthaler, later abbreviated to Thaler. Foreign countries were quick to adopt it, translating the name into their own languages. FLIGHT...by W. D. TIPTON
and J. H. MASON

Without power, an airplane will glide at many different angles. However, there is one angle at which the plane will glide without gaining speed.

At this angle of glide the drag of the plane equals the pull of gravity along the flight path and constant gliding speed is maintained.

A cleanly streamlined plane has a very flat gliding angle. Hence flaps or airbrakes are used to permit a steeper descent, without gaining speed, allowing the pilot to land shorter over obstacles.

An airplane, without power, must descend. Instead of the pull of the propeller, it must depend on the pull of gravity along its line of flight. Although gravity pulls straight down, it has a component along the flight path of the gliding airplane.

The force pulling an airplane is always opposed by the air resistance which holds it back. When these two forces exactly equal one another, there is steady motion; that is, no change of speed. Hence when the drag of air resistance of a gliding airplane equals the pull of

THE CALUMET OF PEACE

"Italy" writes a political commentary that cannot finish unless they both sit right down and smoke the calumet of peace.

It is curious that a controversy between Latin and African should be susceptible to adjustment through an American Indian pacifier!

For the calumet is, among American Indians, a symbol of peace. We have the term from the identical French word "calumet," which in turn is derived from the Latin "calamus," reed. This is the plant out of which Indian pipes are made. The phrase is said to have been introduced into the English language through French Canada. Among others, Longfellow used it in the line:

"Smoked the calumet, the peace pipe. As a signal to the nations."

JOE E. BROWN IS STAR AT CAPITOL

"Alibi Ike" Current Feature With Olivia de Havilland as Leading Lady

Joe E. Brown is coming to town today. He appears at the Capitol Theatre in "Alibi Ike," Warner Bros' home run comedy, based on the popular story by Ring Lardner.

Joe, in the title role, is both a crack pitcher and the best batter of his club. He has an alibi for everything—not just for mistakes—but for plays that other players would have been proud of.

Joe falls in love with the sister of the captain's wife, but when he alibis on his romance the girl hears him and turns him down cold.

Thrills follow in which Joe is kidnapped by a bunch of crooks, but he escapes, and the romance is patched up by the players in one of the most comical climaxes imaginable.

Olivia de Havilland, the stunning eighteen-year-old girl who starred such a hit in Max Reinhardt's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," has the leading feminine role opposite Joe.

COLUMBIA Rear Admiral P. S. THEATRE Rossiter, surgeon-general of the United States Navy, was an interested visitor at the Warner Bros' studios during the filming of "Devil Dogs of the Air," the Cosmopolitan Production, which is now at the Columbia Theatre, a picture of the aviation service of the U.S. Marines.

He was accompanied by Capt. John Downes, U.S.N. The officers were introduced to James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Margaret Lindsay, stars in the picture.

PLAYHOUSE Francis Ford, who has been in screen-dom ever since the days of the old Edison Company, and who was one of the screen's first big stars, returns to films in a small role of Paramount's "Goin' to Town," now at the Playhouse Theatre. Mae West is starred.

BISHOP PLEADS FOR AGREEMENT

Judgment Concerning Marriages in Quebec Brings Protest From Anglicans

MONTREAL, July 30 (AP)—A plea for the churches to get together "and see if a solution of the difficulty could not be found, which would preserve the rights and liberties of all," was made tonight by Rt. Rev. John C. Farthing, Bishop of Montreal, in a statement setting forth the Anglican Church's protest against a recent Superior Court judgment concerning mixed marriages.

The judgment in question was rendered ten days ago by Mr. Justice Alfred P. Robitaille, a Protestant, in a case involving a Roman Catholic priest and a Protestant. The judgment was based on the fact that the priest had been performing a marriage ceremony in a Protestant church, which was held to be a violation of the Civil Code of Quebec. The priest, who was named in the judgment, was a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and the woman with whom he was married was a member of the Protestant Church.

The most serious part of the judgment, Bishop Farthing said, "is appeal to the religious authorities to have the Legislature amend the Civil Code so that all mixed marriages must be solemnized by a priest of the Roman Church. This would make the canon law of Rome supreme over the civil law, and this would be unthinkable to the great majority of our Canadian citizens."

"It is far from our thought to do violence to the conscience of our Roman Catholic brethren; but we have a conscience too, and we cannot surrender our liberty to minister to our own people, which liberty is guaranteed to us by the state. These constant recurring judgments disturb the good will which should exist among Christians even when they differ; for announcements destroy the sanctity of marriage, and certainly break up homes as effectively as do divorces."

MALE BABIES COUNT

There is less cause for the men

to adopt Western ideas, especially as regards their women, and even the most modern of them still fail to give much status to a woman until she becomes the mother of a son.

When a Chinese father is asked how many children he has, he gives only the number of his boys. If he has no boys, he replies that the gods have not favored him yet in this respect, for he is without issue.

And because girls are so despised and useless, small boys are often dressed as girls to deceive the gods and demons of disease and death. They wear silver collars and strings around their necks and ankles, with charms and amulets attached to them. There are dozens of such children in the streets of Hongkong today. Sometimes they even have padlocks to "lock them to life," thus frustrating the Kwai, or evil spirits who may try to steal them away.

MIRRORS USED ON HATS

Mirrors are attached into the fronts of baby hats so if a demon comes near and confronts the child, he will see himself in the mirrors and be so horrified with his own ugliness he will flee in terror!

These are only a few of the ancient customs still being observed in 1935 and which, to the less superficial observer, are relatively sound proof.

MOTHER VANISHES

A young Chinese woman gave birth to triplets, all girls, and perfectly healthy. They were the first Chinese triplets on record for the hospital and were dismissed with the mother in normal time and with a clean bill of health.

The following day the mother disappeared from her house and it was reported that she had sold the three babies for $5 each and had taken them to a place called "Young China."

Had this mother been less blinded by instinct, she might have reasoned that these three daughters, after years of service to the men of her husband's family, might have produced male offspring to blot out her shame. Yet she was a product of what is called "Young China."

She had chosen her own husband, had even been married in a registry office without benefit of the ceremonial red chair.

LOSE THEIR PRESIDENT

HAMILTON, July 30 (AP)—While the national convention of the native sons was in progress in this city, George J. Smith, president of the Association for All-Canada, died at his home in Hamilton last night.

NO EQUALITY FOR WOMEN

Western Liberalism Is Only Surface Deep Among Masses of China

By MARY KNIGHT

HONGKONG, July 30 (AP)—Young China is etching a bold Western pattern on the surface of ancient Eastern life, but it is only skin deep. The mode of life has changed little and the same poverty and disease of centuries ago remain as a heritage.

Woman remains in her bondage and old China takes slowly to the liberalism of the Occident. Still prevailing is the point of view which regards women as chattels and recognizes the right of a husband to sell his concubine, or a father his daughter.

The mother also is given the right to stone for her failure to give birth to a son by taking her own life.

Many young Chinese women are masquerading in Western ideas, clothes and even amusing themselves in adopting Western customs and speech—idioms and slang—but underneath few of them are so fundamentally changed or so far removed from the old as home to be completely comfortable in the new.

BOUND BY FAMILY

Even though she is allowed many of the liberties of the West, the little Eastern girl still must follow the traditional rule of duty to the men of her family. As a child she obeys her father; when she marries she gives up her own family forever and follows her husband; when he dies she follows her son, who has the right to command her in any way he sees fit. And she must observe Four Womanly Virtues, which are:

1. Obey your parents-in-law with submissive filial devotion.

2. Respect your husband.

3. Foster harmony between the wives of your husband's brothers.

4. Instruct your children and grandchildren.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 30.—The gradual flowering of New York's many little Italian fruit stands offers also a study in human horticulture. They start so often with a box of oranges and a stock of bananas in abandoned doorways. Seldom can the little merchants speak more than a dozen words of English.

I watched one upstart in a Columbus Avenue crevice twenty years
